

NEW FRENCH BAKERY

A new and needed industry is that of the French Baking Company, who have recently established a completely equipped bakery at 883 West Fourth South. Eugene Wille, well-known restaurateur and caterer, is president of the company, Sylvain Wille, manager, and Leonn Yere the baker in charge.

The company specializes in French bread and rolls, and white, graham and rye bread, and already has secured contracts with several railroads and some of the leading clubs and restaurants.

Mr. Yere, who learned his business in France, invented a certain French roll while working in New York, and the bakery, though established but a short time, is now famous for these excellent products. They are on the dining cars leaving here; they are to be had at the Alta and Commercial clubs, at the new hotel at Logan, at the Wilson grill and the grill conducted by Sutton and Greeley. The management anticipates that the products of this new bakery may be had in all of the first class hotels and restaurants in Salt Lake and surrounding cities in the very near future, and in the meantime the local demand is being met and numerous households are being supplied daily.

The bakery is up to the minute in every particular, completely equipped to take care of a growing patronage which has wanted something of the kind for a long time.

As the brisk philanthropist thrust her fare into the taxi-driver's hand she saw that he was wet and apparently cold after the half-hour of pouring rain.

"Do you ever take anything when you get soaked through?" she asked.

"Yes, ma'am," said the driver, with humility. "I generally do."

"Wait here just a minute," commanded the philanthropist; and she ran up her steps, inserted her key in the lock, opened the door, and vanished, to reappear in a moment. When she had come down to the taxi-man she gave him a small envelope, "There are some two-grain aspirin tablets," said she; "you take two of them now, and two more in an hour."—Harper's Magazine.

A commander told us this one on the train. He said it happened in his own family during the recent cold spell; but we strongly suspect him of prevarication. The commuter has no furnace in his house and his Swedish girl complained of feeling cold all night. She was told by her mistress to take an iron to bed with her to warm it. In the morning Mrs. Commuter asked Lena how it worked. "Pooty good," she said. "Ay had it almost warm by morning."—Boston Transcript.

Bishop Weldon, in his recently published "Recollections and Reflections," tells the following:

"A governess once tried to give her pupils some idea of the relative size of distant countries by saying, 'Cambodia is about as large as Slam;' but when this information was reproduced in a written exercise one of the girls put it in the words, 'She says Cambodia is about as large as she is.'—Wit and Humor.
